Minneapolis, MN, 4/25/22 – Minnesota Republican “Candidate-Journalist” Bob “Again” Carney Jr. (“bobagain”) called on Delegates Saturday at the Mankato Minnesota First Congressional District Republican Convention to support his call for the State GOP to provide him e-mail addresses to Delegates to this year’s Minnesota State Republican Convention. As the video link shows, (39 seconds in on timeline) bobagain said:

“I believe that I’ve been cancelled to some degree by the party because of my issues with Trump, which you know about – I’m not going to go into that right now. But here’s my request: I want to be able to get e-mail addresses of all Delegates to the State Convention and I want you to support me on this. I want you to have the right... the opportunity... to ignore my e-mails... or read them. Read my book.”

Bobagain displayed a paperback copy of I Governor of Minnesota, to the Convention – his campaign ideography. I Governor of Minnesota is now available on Amazon in both paperback and Kindle e-book formats. The Kindle e-book will be made available as a free download weekly, starting this Friday, and continuing once a week until the State Convention.

Minnesota First Congressional District Republican Convention

Bob “Again” Carney Jr. speaks to the 2022 Minnesota First Congressional District Republican Convention

In addition to explaining his strong opposition to Trump, I Governor of Minnesota presents bobagain’s “Global Thermostat” invention – currently being examined by the U.S. Patent office. During his allotted two minutes bobagain explained the invention to the Convention briefly. The invention is a both a way to generate all the low-cost solar electricity humankind can use, and also, in the process of providing that solar energy, controlling the temperature of the planet, up or down, within a range sufficient to stop global warming. If ever needed (a possible new ice age?) the invention can also be practiced in a way that could raise the temperature of the planet by several degrees (or more, over time, should that ever be needed.) As bobagain told the Convention, this for-profit technological solution “can be done without any involvement by Government.” Chapter 6 explains bobagain’s Global Thermostat invention in detail.

The book also outlines a “Just-In-Time Energy” plan for the transportation sector. In addition to current Internal Combustion Engine (“ICE”) vehicles, the system can provide “Just In Time” units of energy – either as hydrogen gas, or battery storage – supporting both hydrogen gas ICE vehicles and Electric Vehicles. Hydrogen gas ICE vehicles are zero emission – only water is left after the hydrogen gas explodes in the engine cylinders. The system can also capture Carbon Dioxide from conventional fossil fuel-powered ICE vehicles; the CO2 can be reprocessed using a combination of heat and electricity (both can be provided abundantly by bobagain’s Global Thermostat invention) – resulting in synthetic liquid fuel that can be poured into a conventional ICE vehicle’s gas tank. In this way, current ICE vehicles become zero-emission vehicles, and fossil fuel becomes a renewable resource because it is recycled. As bobagain’s book explains, this can also be done without any involvement by government.

As bobagain arrived at the Convention and approached the Chair to request permission to speak, the Chair was telling a State Republican party employee to stop videotaping the event, because that was being done selectively, rather than in a way that would be neutral to all candidates. The Convention Chair ejected the State Party employee from the Convention hall. The Chair announced to the Convention he had done that, and had told the State Party employee that if he attempted to reenter the Convention he would be arrested.

“On two occasions in 2018 Republican Convention Sergeants-at-Arms have either escorted me from a Convention or prevented me from entering a Convention – I believe both occasions were prompted by the Party’s decision to discriminate against Republicans who had objections to then-President Donald Trump. Republicans have in the past not hesitated to express their views about my opinions regarding President Trump. But I am strongly encouraged by the First CD Republican Party’s determination to treat me equally as a candidate, without regard to whatever my opinion might be on a particular issue,” bobagain said.

Because the Convention was considering endorsement only for the full term of their U.S. Representative commencing in January of 2023, bobagain, who is only a CD1 Republican for the special election to complete the late Congressman Jim Hagedorn’s term, did not speak to the Convention in his capacity as a Congressional candidate. However, between now and the May 24th 1st CD Republican special primary election, bobagain plans to concentrate on that race, and on his plan to prevent Trump from ever being on the ballot for President again.
